Hutchison China MediTech

In a busy day for corporate news, it would be a pity to overlook Hutchison China MediTech, another of my tips for this year. This sells compounds into the Chinese market while developing others with Western pharma. Halfway figures showed a swing around from losses last time to a small profit; healthcare looks largely insulated from the other problems of the Chinese economy. The shares, tipped at 415p, added 5 per cent to 508½p yesterday.
